While books and bags are important tools for education, learning should not be limited to the confines of the classroom or textbooks. It is essential to encourage and support your child to explore beyond what they learn from books and bags- (Ms. Anupama Chand)

Gyan Bharati School's Bagless Day was a successful event for primary students. The event was organized to encourage students to take a break from traditional classroom learning and engage in activities that help them develop various skills. It aimed to promote learning, creativity, physical fitness and included various activities like Zumba dance, balloon race, sandwich making, craft activities, DEAR program, and a radio show. The students enjoyed making wall hanging ice cream stick fishes, learning to make a Waldorf star and symmetric shape that helped develop their hand-eye coordination and spatial skills. The event was a fun-filled and enriching experience for all, helping students develop various skills in a fun and interactive manner.
